tin," asid an official of the road, Theday. "I tink that was practically decided Menday."

The cause of Menday morning's fire at Freeport is unknown, but circumstances point strongly to incendiarism. A short time better, Wilson Block was rescued from a blaze and at that time the evidences of Lee incendiary were very plain.

Mr. Twitle, the day before, was asked to in ure his strep, but refused. As his shop and house were in Lee same building, his logs is total. The Commercial Union telegraph office was in the drug store. Dr.
Harvey, dentist, had rooms as the second story of one building. All his instruments were destroyed, but ware insured.

The dector knew mothing about the fire house.

Returning fifteen minutes later, he was stopped by a man in a carriage and asked the question, "Say mister, weere does this road lead to?"

"To Sabatis "

"And how far is it?"

"Nine or ten miles, more or less," said the Pine street man, looking closely at him. He thought the team looked remarkable natural.

"Where does this other road go to?"

There appears to be a squad of peddlers operating in Kennebec county without itenses. Sheriff Hawes, of Readfield, brought one in to Judge Andrews, at Augusta, being found with his pack out in that section. He could not speak a word of English nor any other language known here These people are said to be Russian Jews and some dozen of them are about here, the authorities say A store Las recently been opened where they get their supplies.

While Mrs. John Peavey, of Sidney, was down cellar Thesday afternoon, showing her bired man where to put some apples he had just brought to the house, her little boy Johanle, four years old, went into the house and in about ten minutes came out scream ng and all ou fire Mr Hooper had prisence of mind enough to take his coat off and wrap the little one in it until the flames were extinguished The little fellow's left side was burned so badly the flesh came off with the clothing and his left hard is burned so the flesh is coming off. A doctor was called at once, but he gave no hopes of the child's recovery last night, atthoogh the little one seemed quite num. He thought the team looked remarkable natural.

"Where does this other road go to ""

"It goes to Green, eight or nine miles roff," answered the Pine street man, recognizing his team.

"Well, I guess I'll go that way "

"Can't I get you to give me a ride""
asked the Pine street man.

"Yes. Jump in"

He got in and mechanically took the reins out of the other fellow's hands and turned the horse's head down street. There was a whir of coat tails in front of him and his friend had left the seat beside him and was leaving Main a reet behind him down the Patch on Black street. The Pine street man chased him but could not him, beating him unmercifully, and only resisted when his mether interfered. They then picked up the gan and strode away.

The roads in the country have been very good in condition thus far this fall and those who have had hauling to do have much appreciated the fact. The fall rains will probably change this state of affairs, however.

The streets have been in a muddy condition during the past two days, owing to the rain that has fallen, and the traveling has not been of the best and rather disagreeable, but the mud is not so deep but what a short time of sunshine will dry it. H. C. CLAPP, No 2 FARRIMOTON BLOCK, BREWER. occoo

Match-Waking Ramman.

Water, auts and apples bear a prominent part in the Hallowe'en divinations.

A quiast old book of charms, published in Edinbarg in 1690, entitled, "Olde Father Tyme's Baudie of Faggots Newly Bound Up, "Ideclares that an infallible way to get a view of your future husband or wife is to retire on Hallow eve with a glass of water, in which a sliver of wood has been piaced, attailing by your bedisde.

In the night you will dream of falling from a bridge into the river and being reacued by your future wife or husband whom you will see as distinctly as taough viewed with waking eyes.

This charm is thus alluded to by the English poet Gay

Last Hallew Eve I longed my love to see.

Last Hallow Eve I longed my love to see, And tried a spell to call her up to me With wood and water standing by my size I dreamed a dream and saw my own sweet by de what work and water standing by my size i dreamed adream and saw my own sweether de In "Ye Mysteries of ye Witchcrafte, 'a very old falk yore book, there is a charm "by which a mayde may know if ye man she loves he true." The maid is directed to pluck, at midnight on All Hollow Eve, two menth y roses with long stems, naming one for herself and one for her lover. She must then go directly to her bedroom without speaking to anyone, and kneeling beside her bed, must twing the stems of the two roses together and then repeat the following lines, meanwhile gazing intently upon the rose named for her lover.

Twine, twine and intertwine
Let my love be wholly mine,
Let my love be wholly mine,

I pleck this beck of hair from my head.
To tell whench comes the one that I shall wel.
Fly, eliken hair, by all the world around.
Until you reach the spot where my love is found
There ean be no question that many derived from those of the old Roman festival of Pomona, when divinations and the consulting of oracles and omens were universally practiced.
Lighting bondres is one of the oldest and most universal of Hallowe'en usages, yet the Germanic and Ceitte nations were both accustomed to kindle them on October 31, centuries before they ever heard of the Christian religion and its vigil of Ail Hallow Eve.
It is prehable that the boys of those o d races indulged on that date in the same mischlevous practices which now afford so much pleasure to our youngaters, and no doubt the little some and daughters of the ancient Romans, Germans and Ceitz celebrated quite as extensively as our own children do now by running away before they can be answered, beating in the panels of the front' doors with cabbage;
